

Dead trees matter to wildlife

They provide food, nest sites, and shelter for many birds & mammals—plus other important things they can't find elsewhere. That's why we leave (and love) our dying trees.

Learn more at:

cavityconservation.com

Nature geeks, check out the odder ways birds use dead branches and let me know which is your favorite.